----- RSS Feeds Aggregator for Eudora converts RSS Feeds into plain text articles and adds them to Eudora inbox, optionally with a minor description of the feed in the form of title or link. The conversion is made through a well-optimized complex Perl script that can scale to work well with a lot of feeds in a reasonable amount of time. If your RSS feeds are small and the list is regularly updated, RSS Feeds Aggregator can consume and process your feeds in minutes. However, for larger feeds and less frequently updated ones, it will take up to a few hours. Note: The minimum feed size supported by RSS Feeds Aggregator is 300 items, but actual numbers can vary depending on your configuration. RSS Feeds Aggregator can read:

----- - Atom feeds - both in the form of RSS and Atom files - RSS feeds with or without MIME type header, some of them even with the description - RSS feeds also containing UTF-8 character sets RSS Feeds Aggregator Features: ----- - Untouched RSS Feeds - RSS Feeds Aggregator will just turn your feeds into plain text articles and save them to your Inbox. You can then read them with standard Eudora tools. - ATOM/RSS Feeds - There are two different solutions for reading ATOM feeds: Text file or Web-based. Text file approach uses Perl script to read and format the text feeds. Web-based approach uses Eudora Web Client to get the feeds as text and avoid unnecessary conversions. To use Web client, RSS Feeds Aggregator prompts you with an interactive view of the URLs of your feed, including for example the image (that shows in most of the feeds. - Customize - RSS Feeds Aggregator supports customization for: - Title - the name of the feed will be set as the first line of the article - Description - the feed description may be set as the first line of the article - Link - the URL of the feed will be set as the second line of the article - Date - the date the feed will be modified may be set as the second line of the article - Text - the feed text may be set as the second line of the article - Image - the image of the feed may be set as the second line of
